NUMBER 12.

Temperance and Statewide Prohibition.

Whether prohibition, by county or local unit, or by enactment of State-wide significance is the panacea for the evils incident to over-indulgence in liquor is still an open question concerning which the last word has not yet been spoken. It is trite to say that one may be intemperate in the use of anything, the tongue, for instance, or in the eating of mince pie. This is doubtless true in both these instances. But when people speak of temperance they mean one thing: as it relates to the use of alcoholic liquors as a beverage. Everybody believes in temperance. The question is, what will best promote temperance? Some folks say prohibition, in Statewide application, and point to the States which have tried it as proof of their assertion. Kansas is, perhaps, the best example of what prohibition will do for a State. And the law has worked as well in Kansas as laws governing any other matter of prohibition, such as larceny and arson and murder. In other States the law has not worked so well, not, perhaps, because of anything radically wrong in the principle, but because of defects in the enacting statute. As a matter of fact, no law can be successfully enforced unless public sentiment is favorable to such law. If public sentiment, from the Statewide standpoint, is favorable to prohibition in Kentucky, there is no reason why such law should not be a success. If it is not, from this standpoint, the enactment of such law will work to no good end. However, the only way to test the thing out, is to let the people of the States have the opportunity of registering their will in the matter. The present agitation by the Anti-saloon league is useful in that it will probably result in putting the thing to the test of the popular suffrage. And the Anti-saloon league is the sanest and cleanest agency for temperance in the country to-day, being, as it is, the church at work along temperance lines through the league as its accredited agent.

But prohibition, once secured, is not secure. The party of the first may petition, and successfully, the legislature for the submission of prohibition to the vote of the people; and the party of the second may petition, and successfully, the legislature, for re-submission.

Obituaries are published for the benefit of the family of the deceased, and they are of no interest to the general reading public. This paper has been giving space to writers who desire to say something about their dead and will continue to do so, but when one obituary appears on the death of a person, we do want the second nor the third about the same person. Furthermore, when a writing concerning the dead is sent in it should be short, some writers occasionally so far forget propriety as to mail four or five pages on the demise of an infant. Such contributions should not be published, as a baby has no history, and every article written about an infant of a few months or two or three years old, is bound to be overdrawn.

Kentucky mules have a world wide reputation, but there are three States that are ahead of her in mule production. These six big mule States and their rank according to the census of 1910 was as follows: Texas, 700,000; Missouri, 313,000; Tennessee, 290,000; Kentucky, 265,000; Illinois, 105,000; Indiana, 60,000. St. Louis, New Orleans and Atlanta are the leading mule markets. Kentucky could well afford to increase her prestige in mule raising. We ought at least to be able to grow as many mules as Tennessee.

The Music Teachers' Convention of Adair county, will be held at this place the fourth Sunday in February, at the Christian Church. This organization has been holding its conventions in this county and Russell for some two years, its object being to create a larger interest in vocal music and to develop leaders and teachers in the different communities. The program will appear in next week's issue of the News.

Z. T. Williams has accepted a call to preach for the Church at Dunnville Casey county this year. He will preach at Columbia the second and fourth Sundays in each month, Cane Valley the first, and Dunnville the third.

Delightfully Entertained.

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met and were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. S. Breeding last Thursday. It was an all day affair and twenty-seven were present. After an elegant and bountiful dinner the Society was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bettie Atkins, who conducted devotional exercises. At the conclusion of prayer and song the following program was rendered:

Solo, Miss Elizabeth Hewitt.
A paper, by Mrs. McFarland, entitled Excuses for not Giving to Missionaries.

Reading, Miss Hewitt.
Paper, by Mrs. C. M. Russell, "A Higher Standard of Stewardship."

Solo, Mrs. Ray Montgomery.
At the conclusion of the program resolutions were adopted on the death of Mrs. Hardin, which are published elsewhere in this paper.

The business of the Society was taken up and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President, Mrs. Bettie Atkins.
First V. President, Mrs. W. T. McFarland.

Third V. President, Mrs. C. M. Russell.

Fourth V. President, Mrs. John Sandusky.

Recording Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Russell.

Assistant Sec'y, Mrs. Geo. E. Wilson.

Cor. Sec'y, Mrs. G. M. Stevenson.

Press Agent, Mrs. R. R. Moss.

Agent, Missionary Voice, Mrs. J. A. English.

Before dismissing a Ladies Aid Society was organized with twenty-three members. Mrs. W. A. Hynes was elected President of this last Society and Miss Nettie Clark, Secretary and Treasurer.

A Sure and Certain Way.

The editor of the Burlington Junction Post goes on record as follows: "At this writing we have no desire to leave this vale of tears or hurl ourselves upon Abraham's bosom, but if we should desire to do so, we wouldn't lean up against a loaded gun and then pull the trigger, as many do. Neither would we eat a solid meal of rough on rats, blow out the gas, drink concentrated lye, sit down in the lap of a buzzsaw, smoke cigarettes, or call a Kentuckian either a liar or a poor judge of whiskey. We would simply get out an edition of our paper in which we would strive to the best of our ability to print the plain, square toed truth as we understand it, and then calmly await the end."

As a great humane and patriotic institution, devoted to the mitigation of suffering for the sake of humanity and the upbuilding of a strong and vigorous people, the American Red Cross, through its nursing service, is carrying into the homes of the people such simple instruction in hygiene and home care of the sick as will aid in the improvement of living conditions and the prevention of illness, and make it possible for women to render intelligently such care to the sick in their own homes as may safely be entrusted to them.

Monday was the opening of the Adair circuit court. Representative men were here from all the adjoining counties and business was good throughout the day. The town was full of people and a lot of stock changed hands, prices ruling high. Jockey street was crowded from early in the morning until late in the afternoon, and a great many men went out of town riding different horses from the ones they came in on. The small boys did a good business selling peanuts and apples, and lunch counters were well patronized.

Here is a special offer for the remainder of this month: The Louisville Daily Post and the Adair County News, both one year each for $2.75. This does not include the Kentucky map which is being sent out by the Post.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter A. Strange have removed from Decatur, Texas, to Frederick, Okla., where Mr. Strange is in charge of a large mercantile establishment.

The county roads are said to be in fairly good condition. Now is the time to work them.

Pastor Fifteen Years.

At the regular services of the Christian Church on Sunday morning, January 12, Eld. Z. T. Williams was called to enter upon his 15th year of ministry to the church in Columbia.

He began his work here in 1896 while living at Montpelier and preached for the church once per month in 1896, 1907-08 and '09. In 1900 he made his trip to the Holy Land. During his absence his son, Eld. Lawrence Williams, preached one year. He took the work again in 1901 and preached two years. W. K. Azbill preached in 1903, W. B. Wright in 1904 and Bro. Oder in 1905. Bro. Williams was called to take the work again in 1906. He moved here in April of that year, and has preached here continuously to this time.

His report showed that the work has prospered these years in the providence of God in all its departments. The Ladies' Aid Society has been a great help to the church in their contributions to the different interests of the church. The Bible School has grown and is in a prosperous condition now.

Young man, this paper is your friend, and you are hereby reminded that if you should so far forget yourself as to take too much tangle foot, make an exhibition of your condition by appearing upon the streets, there is a County Judge on the bench, who has taken an oath to do his duty, and those who have known him long, say there is not a doubt but he will do it, it matters not who the law breakers may be. Therefore, we admonish you to live soberly. The way to live such a life is to cut out all associates who are in the habit of taking too much strong drink. Bad associates are ruinous and they should be avoided. Cut them out. They may appear cool toward you for awhile, but it will not be long until they will call upon you for advice when they want to under take a laudible business.

Ad Simpson, who has been in the Greensburg jail for several weeks on several charges of bootlegging, by making use of a chisel in his cell made his escape from jail. The wall was two feet, of heavy stone, and it required several days of steady work to effect an opening. He lowered himself from the second story by means of an improvised rope of shreds of his bedding. Officers have not yet succeeded in learning the least trace of his whereabouts. A number of other prisoners who could have made their escape refused to do so.

Astronomers tell us that we are soon to have the pleasure of viewing another comet. Delavan's Comet, now within the range of the telescope, is coming rapidly towards us and before long will be visible to the naked eye. Such celestial travelers always arouse great interest among the dwellers on this mundane sphere, and their comings and goings are eagerly watched from night to night.

Miss Mary Mitchell, of Glasgow, a young lady known to a great many of the younger people of Columbia, she having visited here with Miss Annie Dixon, was married last week to Dr. Cartwright, of Bowling Green.

The Board of Supervisors completed its work last Friday. One of the members informed us that while the board raised a number of property holders, the amount of the raise was not as great as usual.

Resolutions on the Death of Mrs. A. E. Hardin.

We, the members of the Columbia Missionary Society, desire to express the sorrow of our hearts in the transition of one of our former members, Mrs. Hardin. Though we are grieved that her life on earth is ended, yet we are comforted in the belief that she to-day enjoys the glories of her Father's home, and in that mansion above is waiting to welcome the loved ones left behind. Therefore be it resolved:

1st In the death of Mrs. Hardin we feel that our society has lost a friend, though not with us in person, that we were remembered in her prayers.
2nd Though her stay among us was only for a season at a time, yet the gentle Christian influence of her life was an inspiration for good, and her presence ever a benediction.
3rd We tender our heart-felt sympathy to her two children, and especially to Mrs. Neilson, our former president and to the many friends who knew her but to love, and we pray that in this dark hour of trial the dear Savior's arms may uphold them, and may He guide them and at last bring them into a happy reunion with the loved ones waiting up there. May God help us all so to live that we may meet her with other loved ones in that city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.

Respectfully and reverently submitted.

Miss N. Clark,
Mrs. Emily Burton

Eleven Head of Stock Dead.

The people of Adair county are very much in sympathy with Mr. W. T. Dohoney, who lives on the Burkesville pike, two and one-half miles from Columbia. Last Friday morning his stock, mules and horses, commenced dying and up to Sunday afternoon he had lost eleven head. The cause is a mystery. Mr. Dohoney has no enemy to his knowledge. He is a prosperous and careful farmer and stock raiser, hence the wholesale dying of his mules and horses can not be explained by the local veterinarians.

A government expert has been notified and he was expected to arrive Monday.

Mr. Dohoney's loss is about eighteen hundred dollars.

I have made a deep cut in clothing and Overcoats and Winter Shoes. Now is your time to save money on them.

Public Sale.

On Saturday, the 21st of February, we will sell at public outcry at our barn in Roley, the following: Five mule teams, wagons and harness, two heavy horse teams, two good jacks, three good jennetts, one stallion, two cows to be fresh in the spring, a pair of coming yearling mules, two good brood mares heavy in foal. Also saw mill, hay bailer, binder, reaper, wheat drill, double seated vehicle and many other things not here given. This sale is for the purpose of terminating a partnership business and the property will be sold. Terms: eight months time with interest from date, note to be properly secured.

Wolford Bros.
Casey Creek.

Mr. J. H. Young sold, last week, to Mr. A. R. Humber, of Somerset, 25,000 staves, seconds. They will be hauled from this place to Campbellsville. Price, private. He also sold the same party a large lot of timber.

Grand and Petit Jurors.

The following gentlemen make up the juries for the present term of circuit court.

GRAND JURY.

S. A. Epperson, foreman; S. T. Hughes, Lewis Holt, Albert Stapp, Z. T. Taylor, John L. Roberts, W. T. Grant, L. W. Dudgeon, C. C. Henson, James Suddarth, Noah Loy, James A. Willis.

Casey Jones' Store will save you 25 per cent on Overshoes and Rubber. A big assortment on hands.

Mr. Oscar P. Harvey, who, some years ago was a student in Lindsey Wilson, and who resides at Willow Shade, Metcalfe county, was recently married to Miss Enna Alexander, of Owensboro. The groom is a nephew of Mr. Sam Beck, this place.

Sunday's Courier-Journal contained an excellent, life sized picture of Miss Mary Sampson, of Middlesboro, who was born in Columbia. She is a daughter of Judge J. R. Sampson. Her mother is dead and before her marriage she was Miss Bettie Cravens.

Capt. Dan Schroer, of the Salvation Army, will speak at the court-house this (Tuesday) night. He is not a stranger to this community. He is a zealous Christian worker and every body is invited to hear him. The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock.

We would be pleased to send the Daily State Journal, Frankfort, from now until the first of April for 50 cents. Or better still we will furnish the Adair County News, one year and the Daily State Journal until April 1st for $1.25. If you want to keep in touch with the doings at Frankfort while the Legislature is in session, you should have the State Journal.

Stock for Sale.

I have six good mules, one stallion and a good Jack for sale.

The Bank of Columbia will elect officers some time during this month.

Brass Band.

The following young men have entered into an organization for the purpose of starting a brass band in Columbia:

Edwin Cravens, Sam Antle, Fred Myers, C. C. Pickett, Thos. Patterson, Luther Antle, Ray Montgomery, Will Young, Horace Walker, Ralph Hurt, J. E. Flowers, Count Stults.

Mr. Geo. W. Lowe, the well-known musician, will instruct and lead the band.

In the above list there are seven old players. The manager informs the News that in all probability the present aggregation will be ready to make music on the streets in about five or six weeks.

Jordan Peacock Dead.

The many readers of the News and especially those who like fine horses and who know Jordan Peacock, will regret that he is no more. Doubtless he was known and appreciated by more people than any other horse that ever lived in this part of the state, but there is not a doubt but he contributed more to the value of horse flesh in this section than any other sire.

Mr. Luther Grady has owned him since he was three years old and due to his management his superb qualities were developed as a show horse whose entry in the many rings, when in his prime, never failed to receive public approval of the most hearty kind. He was a saddle horse with as much style and grace of movement as any that ever entered a ring. As a sire he has but few of his get left in this section for the demand carried them out usually, before real maturity. He made the season of 1913 at the stables of R. S. Scudder, a noted horseman, of Lincoln county, and died there in November of kidney trouble, age 22, though appeared in the form of a 10 year old. A great horse, battle in the show ring and as a sire none ever surpassed him in Southern Kentucky. Mr. Grady has one of his colts, Noble Peacock, which he believes will prove Jordan's equal as a show horse and as a breeder. He is only five years old but is proving up to the fondest expectation of his owner, many of his colts proving winners at the fairs last year. At the Columbia Fair one of his colts graduated and won over the get of some of the noted sires in the State.

Paxy.

Judge W. W. Jones' favorite saddle horse, Paxy, bade adieu to this mundane sphere one night last week. Before leaving he took a long hard anxious look at the scenes about the Jones home, then went out and took a direct route to horse heaven. He had been with Judge Jones for twenty-eight years, making many trips from here to Edmonton, Burkesville, Tompkinsville, Jamestown and Liberty. He was a free and safoeager, and his owner was very much attached to him. In fact, money could not have bought him and the best of corn, hay and oats were at all times at his command. But he is gone, and Judge Jones is in trouble. He wants another horse of Paxy's qualities, and he has decided that he will buy a likely colt and raise it and have it gaited for saddle purposes. The Judge does not believe in advertising, but if any one has a nice young animal for sale there is not a doubt but he would find a purchaser in the person of Judge Jones.

All Winter Goods are now being sold at reduced prices. Owing to lateness of season everything in Winter Goods cut down.

A Double Birthday.

On January 15th a number of friends and relatives met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John White to celebrate the birthdays of B. A. White's and Mrs. Maggie Turpin's birthday.

About nine o'clock the guests began to arrive. At the noon hour a nice dinner was spread. Turkey, five different kinds of cakes and jellies and other things to suit the occasion.

After all had enjoyed the dinner the guest assembled together and had their pictures made.

They both received many nice presents. Thirty-five persons were present.

Pupils continue to enter the Lindsey-Wilson. The hall is fairly swarming with humanity.

At the Parlor Circle a good show will be put on Thursday night. The prize will be a turkey.

Editor News:

If the publisher will find room in the columns of his paper to print a few lines from one of the Northern Adair county boys, I will try to write a few lines.

I left Campbellsville Ky., Wednesday evening at 3 o'clock, and arrived at this station at 4 o'clock Thursday morning. Believe me reader, I was ready to lay down when I stepped off the train at this station.

Thursday just after noon when I was feeling some blue, and was walking down Depot street, when whom should I see walking up to me but three of my Casey county friends—Miss Lillie Wilkinson, Mr. Matthew Wilkinson and Mr. Joseph Abell. You may guess I was glad to see them, for they were the only people in Berea that I knew at that time, except the two ladies who came with me—Miss Pearl Wolford and Miss Maud Scott.

Berea is a nice little city of about twenty-five hundred people including Berea College, which furnishes this town about seventeen hundred of her people.

This is an important railroad station. The town has about thirty trains daily.

There is some fine looking farming land in this section of the State, and some that looks it would be too poor to raise a racket on. That is pretty poor isn't it?

Well I guess I have written more than any one cares to read, so will close by saying; I would certainly like to hear from just any of the people who wish to write this way.

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

"I am very glad to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy" writes Mrs. Lida Dewey, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. "I have used it for years both for my children and for myself and it never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. No family with children should be without it as it gives almost immediate relief in cases of croup." From Illinois.

Oakford, Ill., Jan. 6th, 1914.

Editor News:

Abraham Lincoln, the great emancipator, was born in Hardin county, Ky., on February 12th, 1809, being only the next year after the birth of Jefferson Davis, afterwards President of the Southern Confederacy, and Lincoln's great antagonist. He spent his childhood days on the Lincoln farm where he was born, till the age of seven.

In 1816, when Abe was only seven years of age, his father moved with his family to a farm in Spencer county, Indiana, and his mother died in 1818, or when Abe was only nine years of age. The loss of his mother was an irreparable loss, but his father was married the following year, 1819, to Sallie Bush. His mother's maiden name was Nancy Hanks.

His Step mother was always kind to him and he was always ready to help her with her domestic work. He built the fires, carried the water and prepared the wood.

The same year that the Lincoln's moved to Indiana, the State was admitted into the Union. This was in the last year of Madison's term as President. The second war with England had been fought, while Lincoln was only a small boy and, while he was yet in Kentucky. But he was in later life a great student of the principles over which that was waged. Those principles are now settled in the system of international law.

During the ten years from 1816, Abe was engaged in laborious work of various kinds, having only about a years schooling at intervals; but he always made good use of what time he could attend school.

On one occasion, while very young, he wrote:

"Abraham Lincoln.
His hand and pen,
He will be great.
God knows when."

There was something in Lincoln's nature that prompted him on, to think, to act and to feel. His thought was of a high quality and he always seemed to feel the pain of others who were in distress.

In 1825 Lincoln ended his school days at Pidgeon Creek, Ind.,

In 1830, the family moved to Illinois, settling on a farm in Macon county. On the breaking out of the Black Hawk war, in 1832, he he was chosen captain of his company, of volunteers, and served three months in the campaign.

He next opened a country store and was appointed postmaster of New Salem, Ill., and also tended the mill at the same place, the old stone dam of which can still be seen when the Sangamon river is low. It is two miles above Petersburg. At New Salem, (now called Old Salem,) by the people in that section. There has been founded a great Chautauqua where one may go during the month of August of each year and spend 15 days, hearing great speeches, lectures and sermons, bounding with eulogies to

The homely hero born of star and sod,
The Peasant Prince, the masterpiece of God.

The cabin in which Lincoln lived at New Salem may be seen by any one visiting Old Salem Chautauqua.

In 1834 he was a land Surveyor and was first elected to the Illinois Legislature. He was re-elected at the three following biennial elections, serving four terms.

He had begun the study of law soon after locating at New Salem in 1832, and 1836 he was licensed to practice law. In 1837 he took up his residence in Springfield, the capital of the State. In 1840 he was a President-elect on Harrison's ticket and was elected the fourth time to the Legislature.

In 1842 he was married to Mary Todd on the 4th day of November, at Springfield, and his first son, Robert Todd Lincoln, was born August 1st, 1843. His second son, Edward Baker Lincoln, was born March 10th, 1846, and his third son, William Wallace Lincoln, was born December 2nd, 1850. His fourth and last son, Thomas Lincoln, was born April 4th, 1853.

In 1846 Lincoln was elected a Representative in Congress, for the Central district of Illinois and voted steadily in Congress with the anti-slavery party. In 1849 and again in 1856 he was unsuccessful in attempts to enter the United States Senate. In 1856 he assisted in the formation of the Republican party and in the Republican National Convention held at Chicago in May, 1860. He was nominated as a candidate for the Presidency, and after several votes he gained a majority, and was eventually chosen unanimously.

His candidacy for the United States Senate in 1858 and his great debates with his opponent, Steven A. Douglas, had gotten his name before the American people.

He was elected at the November election, 1860, the sixteenth President of our country.

This is the first of a series of articles to be sent the News for publication, taking up in turn Lincoln, Davis, Douglas, Grant, and Lee.

In the next I shall take up the part Lincoln played in politics from the time of his election to his death.

Respectfully,

His Stomach Troubles Over.

Mr. Dyspeptic would you not like to feel that your stomach troubles were over, and that you could eat any kind of food you desired without injury? That may seem so unlikely to you that you do not even hope for an ending of your trouble, but permit us to assure you that it is not altogether impossible. If others can be cured permanently, and thousands have been, why not you? John R. Barker, of Battle Creek, Mich., is one of them. He says, "I was troubled with heartburn, indigestion, and liver complaint until I used Chamberlain's Tablets, then my trouble was over." Said by Paul Drug Co. Ad

Birds Help Farmers.

Encourage the birds to build their nests near your home. Don't never kill them or try to drive them away. If it were not for birds, the insects would eat up every thing on earth.

Birds eat not only insects and destructive little animals, but they also eat the weeds. The value of the principal field crops in a recent years was three and a half billion dollars. It was estimated that the sparrow family ate very many weeds which, if not destroyed, would have choked the crops.

Many hawks do untold good, eating thousands of field mice, which otherwise would destroy the crops. In the west, a few years ago, 600 acres of land was sown to wheat. As soon as the wheat appeared, millions of field mice poured in from the country around and began to eat it. Hawks came and began to eat the mice. Farmers began to shoot the hawks. The mice kept on increasing, and the wheat kept disappearing. At last the farmers appealed to the Government expert for assistance. He showed them how to kill the mice by sprinkling the field with chopped grain soaked in poison. He told them, too, that the hawks were the farmer's best friends; that they must encourage them to come, and must import more, if enough did not come of their own accord.

The farmers did as they were told. After the wholesale poisoning of the mice, the hawks kept the remainder so reduced that they did not do much harm. The hawks saved the 600 acres of wheat for men instead of mice.

"Backache! Me?— Oh No. -- Not Now."

No Backache or Kidney Trouble or Rheumatism for ROOT JUICE Users—Guaranteed.

"Glory! what relief. I could scream with joy and happiness to think that I now get up every morning and go about all day without a sign of that aching soreness." That's what people are saying who have suffered from weak kidneys, backache and rheumatism for years. No wonder. You'll feel like screaming with joy yourself. You've suffered with your aching kidneys and back, for so long it has become almost part of your life. But, oh, wait till you experience the glorious relief of being completely and entirely rid of it.

Listen! You've wasted time and money enough trying uncertain things, you've suffered already longer than there is any need of. Stop, stop. ROOT JUICE, pure, vegetable, harmless, safe, guaranteed ROOT JUICE is going to give you the greatest surprise you ever experienced in all the days of your life. Of course, you'll have to do your part and take it. Even ROOT JUICE can't help you until it gets into your system, but if you have any idea what real relief will be like, you'll waste no time getting it. You're missing a lot of comfort, yes, real joy and happiness every minute you delay using it and you're enduring a lot of needless suffering. You'll see.

At any first class drug store you can get a large bottle of ROOT JUICE for a dollar. That dollar buys relief that is worth a hundred dollars to anybody who knows what rheumatism, backache and kidney misery is. Remember that dollar not only pays for ROOT JUICE but it pays for relief. You've got to get relief or get your dollar back. That's law. ROOT JUICE is. No relief no pay, that's the understanding.

This time get ROOT JUICE and don't put off and don't be fooled. I tell you of something else that's good. You've ever made is any better, mark these words and see. Try ROOT JUICE ten days and save yourself any more suffering. If you are so fortunate as to have escaped these life-darkening maladies, for goodness sake tell some suffering friend or acquaintance what this grand medicine will do. You'll surely earn his or her everlasting gratitude.

Obituary.

On Thursday night, Jan. 9, 1914, the death angel visited the home of Mrs. E. L. Grant, and claimed for its victim, Mrs. Elizabeth Bryant, who was our dear grandmother. She was 78 years of age, and was loved by all who knew her. She took her bed nine weeks ago, and all that helping hands could do was done, but God knows best, and his will be done—not ours. Our dear grandma has left us with bleeding hearts, but if the cold lips could speak they would say: "weep not, for I am at rest." We know our dear grandmother is a shining angel, and is beckoning us on to join her around God's eternal throne, where sweet comfort, joy and gladness never can decrease or end, and where there will be no more partings and sad good byes. The reaping time is coming when we all will meet in that happy home over on Canaan's bright shore. There we will meet dear grandma and grandpa, and all our loving friends who have joined the angel's happy band. Good-bye grandma, till we meet in heaven.

After the funeral services were over, the remains were laid to rest in the Tabernacle cemetery.

A loving granddaughter,
Lillian.

Wonderful Cough Remedy.

Dr. King's New Discovery is known everywhere as the remedy which will surely stop a cough or cold. D. P. Lawson, of Eldon, Tenn., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the most wonderful cough, cold and throat and lung medicine I ever sold in my store. It can't be beat. It sells without any trouble at all. It needs no guarantee." This is true, because Dr. King's New Discovery will relieve the most obstinate of coughs and colds. Lung trouble quickly helped by its use. You should keep a bottle in the house at all times for all the members of the family. 50c and $1.00.—Paul Drug Co. H. E. Bucklen & Co. No Money Needed.

In the Atlantic ocean lies the small island of Ascension, of volcanic formation and having a population of only 450. It was uninhabited until the confinement of Napoleon at St. Helena when it was occupied by a small British force. Ascension is governed by a captain appointed by the British admiralty. There is no private property in land, no rents, no taxes, and no use for money. The flocks and herds are public property, and the meat is issued as rations. So are the vegetables grown on the farms. When an island fisherman makes a catch, he brings it to the guard room, where it is issued by the sergeant-major. Practically the entire population are sailors, and they work at most of the common trades. The mulattoes are a Jack Tar; so is the gardener; so are the shepherds, the stockmen, the grooms, masons, carpenters and plumbers.

Some people try to live on the records of their grandfathers. America has no place for an hereditary aristocracy. Neither has she a place for "has beens." Your influence will be in proportion to your ability to minister to the men of your age. Coming ages may hold you in esteem, but they will treat you as one of the past, useful in his day, but now a character in history. Our age is on the march. New records are being made every day. You must constantly revise yours if you will keep in the van of progress. Do this and you will not have any time to grow satisfied with anything you have done. "You must not measure your responsibility to your age by what others do, but by what you are capable of doing. If you don't keep ahead someone else will. You are on your mettle.

If you want to buy, sell or exchange property or second hand machinery of any kind, write me giving full description and price. I work on 5 per cent commission. I hunt the buyers. I want the sellers.

HANDLING THE UNRULY BULL.

A good way to restrain an unruly bull is described in the Breeder's Gazette:

Have a covering made of good harness leather from a pattern of the animal's head. Fit a piece over the front, having it extend out so as to take a good seam on each side and allow plenty of room about the eyes, then fit pieces to come down on each cheek, four or five inches wide. Have these pieces securely sewed and riveted with the seam upon the outside.

If the animal has horns the hood is easily fastened on. If not make a strong, snug fitting halter with straps to fasten the hood securely under the jaw and around the ears. The whole contrivance needs to be strong and well fitted, as a bull will give it a first class trial.

UTILIZING ASH SUPPLY.

Material From Both Coal and Wood Has Fertilizing Values.

As the time approaches to clean up ash pits and bins and to distribute ashes it is well to remind farmers and gardeners of the value of this product.

When conditions are favorable it is most economical to spread the ashes where they are needed through the winter, as then none of the fertilizing properties are lost.

Even coal ashes may be put upon the land if the coarser portions are raked or sifted out, and these clinkers will serve as drainage or foundations for walks about the barnyard and poultry yard. Chickens also find something they want in the ashes.

Fine coal ashes may be worked into a clay soil with the very good effect of rendering it more porous as well as supplying some of the chemicals necessary to the growth of plants.

For fertilizing the lawn nothing is better than fine wood ashes, but if distributed during the winter and early spring the result will be almost too heavy a growth of grass, necessitating very frequent mowing.

The application of two scuttles of hardwood ashes to a tree produced the largest and finest Seckel pears ever harvested from a certain orchard in St. Louis county, Mo., the fruit ripening from day to day during six weeks.

All small fruits and orchard trees are benefited by a treatment of ashes, and borers that work around the base of the trunk of trees are almost entirely prevented from entering the bark.

A moderate amount of ashes and soot worked into the soil around roses greatly increases the richness and brilliancy of coloring in the blossoms and makes fine foliage. Care must be taken not to loosen the roots, as roses like a rich, firm soil.

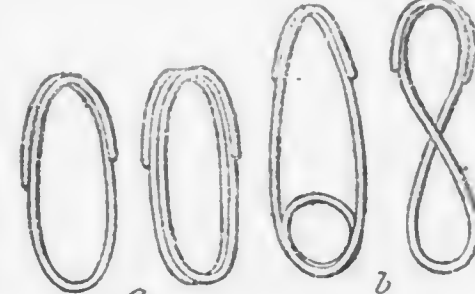

The scrapings from the barnyard if there be a cow, the droppings from the chicken house, with ashes, will supply almost all the enriching for a place of two acres.—Farm Progress.

BED SPRINGS ARE HANDY.

Many Useful Devices Can Be Made From Them.

Among the many homemade handy devices that can be made out of fairly stiff wire, such as bed springs, the repair links and the hitching snags, illustrated herewith, are very useful.

All that is needed to make them is a pair of stout pliers. For the snags one or two links may be made, depending upon the service required. For the snags the wire may be looped in various ways. The snags open something like key rings do, by pulling the jaws apart. They may then be attached to whatever is to be held—dogs, calves or even larger animals if the wire is stout. For hanging things up they are also very handy.—American Agriculturist.

An idle acre is like an idle man—of no more use than a dead one and takes up more room.—Kansas Farmer.

BEEES.

When the hives are well distributed in a certain space their inmates may be more easily handled. It seems to improve the disposition, especially if there are some trees or shrubs about it. Robbing is not prevalent either, and the absence of that always helps to make bees better natured.

A good fall flow of honey is not an unmixed good, for careful trials have shown that there is a superabundance of pollen grains in this honey which does not make it the most desirable for winter stores, and the presence of the pollen has a tendency to bring on dysentery with the bees, especially if they are wintered in the cellar without an occasional cleansing flight, which the outdoor winter protected bees have. This is a mighty good argument in favor of wintering bees outdoors.

HOG BRISTLES.

The greatest foe of the pig is hog cholera, and the greatest enemy of hog cholera is cleanliness.

Never select a heavy, lazy sow for a breeder nor one that has a bad temper.

The best hogs have heavy bones. Watch this if you are about to purchase one.

Many hogs are bothered with worms. Examine the droppings. To make fall pigs do well they must be provided with warm sleeping quarters.

Provide charcoal for the hogs.

SHEEP MEASLES.

Methods of Preventing the Spread of This Parasitical Disease.

The sheep measles parasite has recently become common in the United States. It attacks the muscles, says the Orange Judd Farmer. In heavy infestations it may cause the animal's death. Fortunately it has been proved to be the intermediate stage of a dog tapeworm, not of the armed tapeworm of man, with which species it has generally been identified in the past. Sheep become infected as a result of swallowing the eggs scattered over the pasture in the excrement of dogs harboring tapeworms. Dogs in turn acquire the tapeworm after eating the carcasses of infested sheep.

Preventive measures are, first, systematic treatment to keep dogs free from tapeworms, thus removing the source from which sheep become infected; second, the proper disposal of the carcasses of dead sheep and the complete prohibition of raw mutton as an article of food for dogs, thus preventing the possibility of the parasite reaching its canine host. The destruction of carcasses will also reduce the chances of the transmission of the parasites to coyotes, which may also to some extent act as hosts, though these animals are probably much less important as carriers than the dogs which constantly accompany sheep on the range.

THE SHROPSHIRE SHEEP.

Characteristics That Indicate Quality In This Popular Breed.

The Shropshire breed of sheep, having its home on the downs of England, is very symmetrical and stylish in form. The head should show refinement in every feature with moderate length, says the American Cultivator.

A characteristic attribute is for it to be closely covered with wool, the cap between the ears being dense running to the bridge of the nose joining that which covers the cheek and the lower part of the head. The ears should be far apart, pointed and moderate in thickness and preferably covered to the tip with fine curly wool. There should not be the least evidence of horns, as the places where these sometimes appear should be covered with wool. The neck should be nicely attached and full of sufficient length to carry the head with peculiar style. The body to possess this characteristic smoothness and symmetry must be somewhat circular and round ribbed. The back should be straight, strong and knit so that the handling of this part shows it to be smoothly and evenly covered. The loin must be wide and hips not prominent and the quarters lengthy and deep. The width from the loin and hips should be carried out to the tail head, and the fullness characteristic of this part should be maintained on the outside of the thigh and on the inside as well.

I have found that Shropshires are the most profitable sheep among the popular breeds, says a New York sheep grower. I have handled and fed all the mutton breeds in the first place, Shropshires do not eat as much as other breeds, and they bear more wool. I sheared 150 breeding ewes last year, all sucking their lambs, and they averaged eleven pounds of wool apiece and one and a half lambs apiece. They make good mothers to their lambs, good milkers and are long lived. We run about 150 in a bunch. They are the only mutton breed that you can run in big bunches. You are never troubled in Shropshires with having guttie in the neck.

The fleece should be strong and fine in fiber, with all the density possible. From the bridge of the nose to the fetlock as well as along the belly a dense covering of wool is desirable. In opening the fleece the fibers, which are generally about three inches long, should part readily, show clear white in strong contrast to the pink skin. About the ears or top of the head there should be no patches of black fiber, nor should these appear distributed anywhere in the fleece. The characteristic markings for the face and legs are rich dark brown in color. The best type of this breed shows an unusual combination of quality and quantity of both wool and mutton.

WED. JAN. 21, 1914

The Governor in his message called attention to the importance of the passage of a corrupt practice act. Just what will be done along this line is not yet revealed, but there is one thing certain, without effective restriction we had better have the primary law wiped out, and let the political parties pursue the course deemed most expedient for the selection of party nominees. The Democratic party not only pledged itself to the enactment of a State primary law, but to a corrupt practice act as well. There is absolutely no reason why the State should bear the expense of selecting party nominees for State offices, and permit frauds to flourish, and unless the present Legislature wakes up to the real situation, there will be wide discontent and demands for the repeal of the primary law. The people of this State are demanding honest political living. The time has passed—gone forever, we hope, when victories secured through deception and frauds will meet party approval. The spirit, the intent of the primary, certainly is meant to put all political aspirants on the same equal footing, to prevent what is known as combines and to keep nominations from going to the highest bidder. To all of this we most heartily subscribe, but the fact is, that, so far, our primary law has not shut out frauds nor enabled political parties to secure better men than was done under party conventions or party primaries. If the primary law is to be of real worth, punishment of the severest order must be inflicted for disreputable methods and means employed to gain nominations. The use of money and liquor has long been employed by corrupt politicians to advance their interests and is no more powerful or disreputable in a convention than under the State primary. In view of the fact that in many counties gross frauds were alleged last August, that political parties were thereby demoralized it seems that our law makers—Democratic Legislators—should give the people exactly what the party pledged in its last State platform to prevent such action or to punish those who engage in it. The party is pledged and the governor calls for its fulfillment. Not only the Governor, but every honest man in the state will endorse any law to reduce crime and debauchery in our primaries and elections.

Senator Antle has offered a bill to more accurately regulate the paying of teachers, making the initial salary of third class teachers $30 per month, second class teachers $32, and the first class teachers $35, while the emergency schools are left to the discretion of the county boards.

TAX AMENDMENT HELD INVALID.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 14.—The constitutional amendment providing for the classification of property for purposes of taxation was declared invalid by the Court of Appeals this morning, affirming the Franklin Circuit Court.

This suit was brought by Senator G. E. Speer, of Frankfort who secured an injunction restraining the Governor from proclaiming the adoption of the amendment.

After reciting the provision of the Constitution requiring publication of notices of the election not less than ninety days before the election at which the amendment is submitted, and the failure of the Secretary of State to advertise the election at the proper time, the court said, in an opinion by Chief Justice Hobson:

"This court had held before the adoption of the present Constitution that all the provisions of a Constitution are mandatory. The Constitution must be presumed to have been adopted with this understanding of its meaning. Since the adoption of the Constitution the court has steadily maintained the same rule.

INTENDED TO BE MANDATORY.

"There could have been no reason for inserting in the Constitution the length of time for which the publication of the proposed amendment must be made unless it was intended to be mandatory, for otherwise there was no reason for not leaving the whole matter to the Legislature.

"We cannot assent to the conclusion that the notices in the newspapers calling attention to the failure of the Secretary of State to make the publication required by the constitution can take the place of the publication itself.

"But for the provision of the Constitution on the subject it could only be amended by a convention called for this purpose. The framers of the Constitution evidently intended to restrict amendment. The constitution may be set aside by revolution, but it can be amended only in the way it provides.

"It is argued that this conclusion puts it in the power of the Secretary of State to defeat the will of the people and prevent an amendment to the Constitution; but the Secretary of State is an officer created by the Constitution. When the Constitution has provided that it may be amended only by the agencies it selects for that purpose, to amend the Constitution in any other way is to ignore its provisions. The fact that a majority voted for the amendment, unless the vote was taken as provided by the Constitution, is not sufficient to make a change in that instrument."

The Legislature is now down to business. Our Senator, Hon. Robert Antle and Representative Sharp, were placed on the following committees: Mr. Antle, Committees on Claims, Proposition and Grievance, Mines and Mining. In the house, Hon. A. W. Sharp on Claims, Public Health, Tuberculosis, Retrenchment and Reform. Hon. Lilburn Phelps, Representative from Russell and Casey, is on the following committees: Appropriations, Criminal law, Kentucky

Statutes, Propositions and Grievance, Suffrage and Election.

As we have fully recovered from the flood of March the 25th, 1913, will try to sketch to you a few lines of the many details of the flood which had in its vast reach, fifteen miles wide. Dayton was covered from ten to fifteen feet of water and of the fifty thousand lives endangered, the loss was only one hundred and fifty.

The N. C. R. plant and the other large institutions has an up-to-date wood working department, it was turned to the effort of making of boats, and the result came a boat to the waters edge every seven minutes; this aided a great deal to the saving of lives.

Dayton lies in the Miami valley between two large hills, and was no more prepared for a flood than a city many miles from a water course.

If you were to be in Dayton today you could scarcely notice any mark's of the flood.

Kills House Pests.

"From its habits of concealment the bed bug is usually beyond the reach of powders, and the ordinary insect powders such as pyrethrum are of practically no value," says the Department of Agriculture at Washington. "The eradication of the insect is comparatively easy from iron and brass bedsteads, but wooden bedsteads offer a much more difficult problem. Very liberal applications of benzine or kerosene, or any petroleum oil, is the most practical way to meet this difficulty. This must be introduced in all crevices with small brushes or feathers, or by injecting with small syringes. Corrosive sublimate is also of value, and oil of turpentine may be used in the same way. The liberal use of boiling hot water, wherever it may be employed without danger to furniture, etc., is also an effectual method of destroying both eggs and active adults.

Various remedies and mixtures for this pest are for sale, most of them containing one or another of the ingredients mentioned, and these are frequently of value. A daily inspection of beds and bedding and all crevices and locations about the premises is the best method to use. A vigorous campaign should, in the course of a week or so at the outside, result in the extermination of this very obnoxious and embarrassing pest.

In the case of rooms containing books, or where liquid applications are inadvisable, a thorough fumigation with brimstone is an effective means of destruction. The method is as follows:

Place in the center of the room a dish containing about four ounces of brimstone, within a larger vessel, so that the possible overflowing of the burning mass may not injure the carpet or set fire to the floor. After removing from the room all such metallic surfaces as might be affected by the fumes, close every aperture, even the keyholes, and set fire to the brimstone. When four or five hours have elapsed the room may be entered and the windows raised for a thorough airing."

Farm and Garden

POULTRY OPPORTUNITIES.

The Farm Is Most Conducive to Successful Poultry Raising.

The foundation upon which all successful poultry operations rest is constitutional vigor, according to poultry experts of the department of agriculture. Without a high degree of health it is utterly impossible to progress in poultry work, and there is no other place where conditions are so conducive to poultry success as they are on the farm. The farmer has the advantage of having free range for his birds, which means an unlimited supply of bugs, insects, green feed and grit as a food supply.

Poultry strongly constituted means highly fertile eggs and the production of good, strong chickens. Eggs produced from fowls that have free range, on the farm hatch better than those from fowls that do not have that advantage. In feeding the farmer has the advantage over other poultrymen. Where live stock is kept there is a considerable amount of grain dropped upon the ground which could not be utilized other than by poultry. This grain in most cases would be a total loss to the average farmer unless eaten by the fowls.

On most farms milk is available for feeding. Its value as an egg producer is not exceeded by any other one feed in existence. Chaff from the barn loft, containing many feeds that are readily consumed by poultry, can be used as a bed or litter in the poultry house instead of being wasted.

It is essential to successful poultry raising to know at all times the ages of your fowls. This can be readily done by toe punching chicks as soon as hatched, which will obviate the killing of the young hens and pullets before their days of usefulness are over. To do this use a small harness punch, perforate the outside web of the right foot between the toes, and the following year punch on the inside web of the right foot. The age of the flock can thus be told year by year.

As soon as the hen starts to molt after the second laying season it is advisable to market her, as in molting she will produce very few eggs, and by keeping her through this period, which lasts about ninety days, there is little to gain, and often the fowls die during this time.

The time is at hand when young apple trees must be protected or the owner will find that he has provided a very expensive winter feed for the rabbits.

CUTTING SILAGE CROPS.

A Great Deal Depends Upon Choosing of Proper Time.

Corn and various sorghum crops will most generally be used for silage crops. Corn should be cut for the silo when the grain has begun to harden. There should still be a sufficient amount of green material in the plant to make it pack solidly in the silo. It is often times very difficult to harvest a crop in this ideal condition.

The use of water in filling is almost a necessity where dried corn is placed in the silo. The exact amount necessary cannot be stated in positive terms. Enough water must be added so that the material will pack solidly and pass through the necessary fermentation. The most satisfactory way to apply this water is by directing a stream into the blower.

The Kafir and sorghum should be allowed to become well matured like-wise in order to make ideal silage. These crops as a rule remain green much later in the season, and the period in which they can be properly placed in the silo is longer than it is with corn. It is especially important that the sweet sorghum be allowed to reach full maturity before being placed in the silo. These crops have shown themselves to be very valuable as silage crops. These crops sometimes become frosted by an unseasonable frost. It is then necessary to place them in the silo at once whatever the stage of maturity. If left in the field after the leaves have been frosted a considerable portion of the finer parts will dry up and be lost.

THE SWINEHERD.

Warm hog houses are cheaper than corn, and cold takes off fat. Damp, dirty bedding and healthy pigs will not be found in the same house.

Don't allow the hogs to sleep in or around the stable stalls—unless you want fleas in the barn.

A weak solution of a common coal tar dip sprinkled about the hog house will prevent foul odors and help to preserve the general health of the animals.

Too much feed and too little exercise are generally the causes of thumps. The remedy is evident.

Disease germs and parasites find their kindest harbor in filth. Clean hogs are generally healthy hogs, free of parasites. Cleanliness costs little but effort.

A GOOD FARROWING PEN.

Small Portable Huts Best For the Sow and Litter.

A farrowing pen made from fencing boards, light and portable, five feet square, is one of the handy arrangements on our farm and indispensable in farrowing time, writes G. O. Brown in the National Stockman. This pen may be set up anywhere on the farm—in a shed, on the barn floor or in the basement, in the open barn lot about the straw stacks or wherever comfort exists for the advent of the youngsters.

The dam can get no nesting material save what we give her and cannot smother her pigs in the litter. We have each of our A shaped hog hanks built from matched barn siding with open front door, and fitted in the top ridge of each is a hook upon which we hang a lighted lantern, excluding all frosted air from the interior. Over the doors we tack temporarily a piece of burlap with a light piece of board at the bottom, which holds the curtain in place.

The dam can go out for feed and the youngsters are not exposed to the chill winds. On sunny days these curtains are fastened up and the sunshine admitted. Dry nesting material adds greatly to the health of the dam and the thrift of the early litters and is worth while giving.

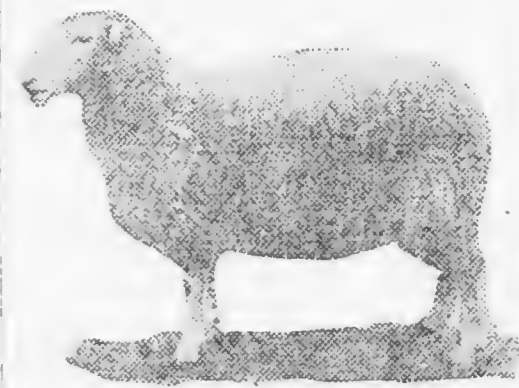

THE GRADING OF SHEEP.

Breeders and Feeders Should Be Separated in Winter Quarters.

To make the best gains, sheep, when brought into winter quarters, should be separated into several different flocks. The breeding ewes should be kept separate from the lambs, rams and the feeding flock. Wean, thin ewes should be separately yarded so that they may get their share of the feed. Rams should be kept in lots of ample size so as to allow them plenty of exercise.

By taking these precautions and regularly providing the flocks with suitable feed and an abundance of fresh water and by sheltering them in clean, well ventilated quarters success in sheep husbandry is assured, according to Frank Kleinheuz, shepherd of the Wisconsin experiment station flocks.

The choice of feed depends to a large extent upon the condition in which the breeding flocks enter winter quarters.

There are several breeds of sheep which run naturally to good size. Take the Shropshires, the Hampshires, the Oxford, the Lincoln, the Cotswolds or the Cheviots, all of which are inclined to grow to good size, and one will make no mistake in feeding and breeding for meat. These sheep all produce lambs freely, and the lambs are as thrifty and fast to grow as are the old sheep, soon coming to marketable size. Most of these sheep, too, may be classed as twin bearing, another point in their favor. The illustration shows a Cheviot wether.

If in good flesh and having access to good roughage, such as clover, millet, alfalfa hay and roots or corn silage, hardly any grain is necessary, but if the sheep are in a thin, weak condition no time should be lost in supplying them with hearty grain rations. Otherwise results at lambing time will be disappointing.

Pure water should be supplied the flock at all times, and salt should be kept where the sheep may have ready access to it. Successful flockmasters consider it a serious mistake to provide their sheep with salt but occasionally, for under these conditions they are apt to eat too much, which oftentimes causes excessive drinking of water and a derangement of the digestive organs.

Raising Hogs Cheaply.

In raising hogs cheaply it is necessary to begin with the sows. They must be fed well in order to produce a good litter of strong, vigorous pigs. Oats are a splendid feed. They are a well balanced food. Corn is not suitable. It is too fattening. Also provide plenty of pure water. Exercise is necessary. This can be provided by feeding the oats on a feeding floor, scattering it thinly. It is not necessary to grind the oats.

What's The Matter With Your Baby?

The young mother—and many an old one, too—is often puzzled to know the cause of her child's ill nature. The loudness of its crying does not necessarily indicate the seriousness of its trouble. It may have nothing more the matter with it than a headache or a feeling of general dullness. It cannot, of course, describe its feelings, but as a preliminary measure you are safe in trying a mild laxative.

Nine times out of ten, you will find it is all the child needs, for its restlessness and peevishness are perhaps due to obstruction of the bowels, and once that has been remedied the headache, the sluggishness and the many other evidences of constipation and indigestion will quickly disappear.

Don't give the little one salts, cathartics or purgatives, for these will act as irritants, and they are too strong for a child. In the families of Mrs. M. S. Adams, Auburn, Ky., and Mrs. L. M. Boyce, Tip Top, Ky., the only laxative given is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It has been found to answer most perfectly all the purposes of a laxative, and its very mildness and freedom from griping recommend it especially for the use of children, women, and old folks generally—people who need a gentle bowel stimulant. Thousands of American families have been enthusiastic about it for more than a quarter of a century.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Montreal, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Last Ditch Fight.

An old gentlemen, now deceased, never seemed to be satisfied unless he had several cases pending in court. He left surviving a son who seems to have followed in his footsteps and has continued to keep up his father's record of proceedings in court.

Several of the attorneys were talking about his court troubles one day, when one of them told the following about the old gent:

The old gent had just won a case in justice court, when a loser, in a very combative frame of mind, exclaimed: "I'll law you to the Circuit court."

Old Gent—I'll be thar.

Loser—And I'll law you to the Supreme court.

stronger?

Which Was Stronger?

Once upon a time the wind and the sun had a quarrel. The wind said he was stronger than the sun because he could make ships sail, but the sun said: "Oh, no, I am the stronger, I can make plants grow."

They wished to prove which was the stronger and they saw a man coming along the road. "See that man?" said the wind, "I can blow his coat off?"

"I bet you can't," said the sun. "But I can make him take off his coat."

So the wind blew as hard as he could but the man only said: "It grows cold," and held his coat closer together.

Then the sun tried. He did not make any noise, but shone hotter and hotter until the man said, "My, but it is getting hot," and took off his coat as quickly as possible.

"See what I did," said the sun. "I am stronger than you."

Which do you think was the stronger?

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

Christmas is over and we feel that we have had our share in this community. Our school closed on Xmas. Eve with a nice entertainment and Xmas. tree in addition, which caused many hearts to throb with emotions of joy and gladness. Mr. Joe Denton was the only one to receive a live present. He was surprised with a nice Hoot Owl, and besides being thankful that things are no worse than they are, we are thankful for many things received in the past year. This writing reminds me of an occurrence once in which a man fell from a very high building on the pavement and dying instantly, scarcely missing some parties standing near by. When he fell, another party not far away rushing to the scene, and realizing the man's condition as being dead, said "Thank God it is no worse than it is", and one of the bystanders wanted to know how in the thunder, it could be any worse than it is as the man was dead as a hammer, and the thankful man just remarked that he could have fallen on one of them and then there would have been two dead instead of one.

So you see things could be a great deal worse sometimes than they are. We, in this school district feel very thankful to the Educational board of the county and especially our Chairman for a brand new school-house twenty by thirty with nice bell and house conveniently located on county road and furnished with good blackboard, patent seats and desks.

We feel very grateful to Miss Eva Murrell, who has taught us a good school, for her services rendered in assisting the district in getting up a pie supper by which we obtained near $14 which has enabled us to buy an awful nice chart, Encyclopedia, some toy money and some little story books.

Comparing this with our little box house 18 by 22 ft., inconveniently situated with two or three benches and some puncheons constituting our seating capacity we feel that we are on a kind of a boom in educational lines.

Miss Dora Eubank, of Columbia, was visiting the family of J. D. Eubank during Xmas., and her solo and recitations at our entertainment were highly appreciated.

We understand that Mrs. J. E. Burton is no better at this writing.

Mr. Henry Hadley, who has been quite ill, is some better now.

RAISING WINTER LAYERS.

Careful Study of Breeds Essential to Success.

In order to raise winter layers one must know something about the characteristics of the different breeds, the laying periods of which vary, says a correspondent of the Country Gentleman. Some begin laying in five months, others in six, seven or eight months. When the egg laying characteristics of a particular breed of fowl are known it is easy to raise winter layers.

In the writer's experience with White Plymouth Rocks the time between hatching and the laying of the first egg has varied from five months and four days to seven months and thirteen days. Pullets usually lay a small number of eggs at first—about fifteen or twenty—then rest a few days or a week, after which they begin to lay again and continue for three or four months or more without stopping. By regulating the hatching of chicks according to these laying characteristics and by giving them proper care and attention a good supply of fresh eggs may be had during the winter months.

BEST TYPE OF HOUSE FOR WINTER LAYERS.

months. A brief description of the writer's method of raising winter layers may be helpful.

Hens are used for incubating the eggs. Provided a hen wants to set any time after the middle of February she is put in a warm and protected place. For prospective winter layers it is well to hatch the chicks as early as March and April. With hens to brood the chicks and with a sunny exposure and protection from cold winds, they need little more attention in early than in later hatching.

No wet food is given young chicks until they are four to five weeks old. The mother hen is cooped, but the chicks are allowed free grass range. They are fed regularly five times a day until they are about two months old, after that for two months or so four times a day, and from that time on three times a day until winter is over. The young chicks are kept free of vermin by simple methods, the perches and roosting places are carefully watched for chicken mites, and any indication of sickness is at once investigated.

After the chicks are three months old they are fed a wet mash in the morning and a grain mixture consisting of two parts of whole or cracked corn and one part each of wheat and oats for the remaining meals. The mash is composed of four parts by measure of bran and one each of middlings, cornmeal and mixed grains. Occasionally one measure of meat meal is added to the mash to furnish animal protein, though the meat meal is kept in hoppers in order that the young chickens may learn to balance their own ration. Since chickens possess individual tastes, it is better to let them balance their ration to suit themselves. The mash is usually wet down with the wastes from the table. Oyster shell and grit are always kept before the fowls in hoppers.

A dry scratching pen, free from drafts and well lighted, is provided for each pen of fowls. This is practically indispensable for winter layers in cold or moderate climates. Grain thrown in the litter will keep the fowls busy for hours. Exercise is very important for fowls that are kept to produce eggs during the winter months. Plenty of fresh water is also essential for laying hens. Fifty fowls cared for in this manner during the past four or five years have given a fairly uniform supply of winter eggs. As a rule the fifty fowls have consisted of from sixteen to twenty pullets, about the same number of one-year-old hens and a few two-year-olds. Careful records show that the pullets during the winter months lay about four times as many eggs as the hens. For profitable winter egg production it is advisable to have as many vigorous pullets as possible.

With pullets numbering only about one-third of the fifty fowls, the production of the writer's flock during the past four winters, regarding the winter months as December, January and February, has been as follows: Winter of 1907-8, 1,032—average per month, 344; winter of 1908-9, 1,230—average per month, 446; winter of 1909-10, 1,258—average per month, 419; winter of 1910-11, 1,345—average per month, 448.

FACING THE CAMERA.

Its Effect Upon a Man Who Didn't Take Things Seriously.

Writing on "Familiar Incidents" in the American Magazine, Stephen Leacock describes his experiences having his photograph taken. The following is an extract:

"The photographer rolled a machine into the middle of the room and crawled into it from behind.

"He was only in it a second—just time enough for one look at me—and then he was out again, tearing at the cotton sheet and the window panes with a hooked stick, apparently frantic for light and air.

"Then he crawled back into the machine again and drew a little black cloth over himself. This time he was very quiet in there. I knew that he was praying, and I kept still.

"When the photographer came out at last he looked very grave and shook his head.

"The face is quite wrong," he said. "I know," I answered quietly. "I have always known it."

"He sighed. "I think," he said, "the face would be better three-quarters full."

"I'm sure it would," I said enthusiastically, for I was glad to find that the man had such a human side to him. "So would yours. In fact," I continued, "how many faces one sees that are apparently hard, narrow, limited, but the minute you get them three-quarters full they get wide, large, almost boundless in—"

"But the photographer had ceased to listen. He came over and took my head in his hands and twisted it sideways. I thought he meant to kiss me, and I closed my eyes."

Resolution.

To think we are able is almost to be so. To determine upon attainment is frequently attainment itself. True earnest resolution has often seemed to have about it a savor of omnipotence. Samuel Smiles.

No One to Stop Him.

Thackeray used to enjoy telling of one experience he had in New York. Wishing to see a specimen of the red shirted Bowery boy and volunteer fireman of that period, of whom he had heard so much, both before and after his arrival in this country, he wended his way to that thoroughfare and soon saw one of the species seated on a hydrant. Approaching him, he politely said:

"Please, sir, I want to go to Brooklyn."

"Well," answered the Bowery boy, "why the — don't you go?"—From Wilson's "Thackeray in America."

Both Legs Shaky.

A former official of the United States railway mail service was compelled as head of his department to suspend an agent on account of a missing package that contained $5,000. No suspicion attached to the agent, but he was laid off pending an investigation. The package was found and the agent reinstated.

A few days after he was back on his old run the locomotive left the rails and ran into a corn field, dragging part of the train with it. The mail car was unharmed, and the agent who had been suspended was pulled out. His leg was broken. He was sent to a hospital, where he remained for seven weeks. On his recovery he sent in his resignation. It was framed and still hangs in the office of the former official. This is a copy:

"Please accept my resignation on receipt of this. I am tired of holding a job where I nearly had one foot in the cemetery and the other in the grave."—Chicago Record-Herald.

King Coffee's Flight.

The author of "Reminiscences of Oxford" fingers lovingly over the memory of his school-fellow Tom Paussett, who died too early to redeem the promise of his youth. He was the most famous punster in the college. His was the quoniam in Punch at which all England laughed when, in the Ashanti war, King Coffee Calabli fled from his burning capital:

Compassionate pun is meant to doat. The king quoniam is he. So Ash-and-Coffee now remain. Of what was Ash-and-Coffee.

Maintaining His Argument.

One night at "Breaks," in London, when Coke was present Fox, in allusion to something that had been said, made a very disparaging remark about government powder. Adam, attorney general to the Prince of Wales, who heard it, considered it a personal reflection and sent Fox a challenge. At the time appointed Fox went out and took his station, standing full face to his adversary. Fitzgerald pointed out to him that he ought to stand sideways. "What does it matter?" protested Fox. "I am as thick one way as the other!" The signal to fire was given. Adam fired, but Fox did not. His seconds, greatly excited, told him that he must fire. "I'll be — if I do!" said Fox. "I have no quarrel." Whereupon the two adversaries advanced to shake hands. "Adam," said Fox complacently, "you'd have killed me if it hadn't been for the badness of government powder."

A Bright Bird.

The cuckoo is more likely to steal its nest than to make it, but this fact does not take from the point of the following pun, quoted from Short Stories:

A young Englishman, being asked at dinner whether he would have some bird's nest pudding, said, turning to his hostess, "Ah, yes—bird's nest pudding, and what kind of a bird may have made it?"

"Oh, it was the cook who made it," was her prompt reply.

Gradyville.

The weather has been delightful for the past week.

Mr. W. B. Patteson, of Columbia, was in our midst last Friday.

Our free school closed last Friday. Miss Mary Mann returned to her home at Edmonton.

Messrs. Ed and U. N. Whitlock put in several days of last week, on the tobacco market, in Louisville.

Messrs. Nell and Nell have been prizing tobacco for the past few days, preparatory for the Louisville market.

Messrs. Jas. Diddle and W. E. Hunter made a business trip to Greensburg one day last week.

R. L. Caldwell, of Milltown community, was here one day last week looking after cattle.

J. H. Smith spent a few days of last week, on the cattle market, in Louisville.

Miss Creel Nell, of Columbia, spent a few days of last week with her many friends in our city.

Messrs. Pendleton and Bailey, of Greensburg, received a nice lot of hogs on our market one day last week at the market price.

Mr. Robert O. Keltner, with several other citizens of our community, had business with the Board of Supervisors, at Columbia, last week.

J. A. Diddle spent a few days of last week at Greensburg, looking after lumber.

Messrs. Baker and Morrison, of Columbia, have recently moved their saw mill from Green county, and located it near this place, on the farm of D. C. Wheeler, where they have a large amount of hickory timber to saw.

Mr. Arvest Hill and wife are spending a few days with relatives at Rowena, this week.

Mr. Elmer Keen, one of our efficient merchants, has been on the sick list for a few days.

Mr. E. G. Wethington, of Columbia, spent a few days here last week, receiving spokes. We are glad to note that the timber is a great deal better grade than he expected in this section.

Mr. and Mrs. Strong Hill entertained quite a number of our society people in honor of Misses Knight, Rowe and Winfrey, of the L. W. T. S. school, of Columbia. The evening was delightfully spent.

We are glad to note that Mr. Edward Diddle, who had a long spell of typhoid fever, has about recovered and will be ready for school again in a short time.

Our old friend, Charlie Sparks, the well-known mail contractor, of this part of the county, is open now to give employment to any of the boys, who are eligible for Uncle Sam's business. Don't all speak at once.

Mr. John Viers, who has been located for the past year or so over in Indiana, is with us for a short time, on a visit.

The scare of mad dogs have abated to some extent in this section. We are glad that no one was bitten, and we are glad again that the scare has decreased the number largely, and it would be good if there was just about as many more out of the way.

The few days of sunshine and dry weather certainly got a move on our farmers last week. The scarcity of corn, hay and other things in proportion will get us all up and doing while the sun shines. The tobacco beds that were burned and sowed last week in this community are almost innumerable. Our farmers are turning the soil, and we will take the liberty to say, right here if the season will admit, there will not be the demand for corn here next spring, as there are at this time.

On the 15th of this month, gathered quite a number of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Harper's friends and relatives in honor of Mr. Harper's seventieth anniversary. The day was very pleasantly spent by every one present, and wishing him many more birth-days like the one just past.

Absher.

Miss Audra Dillingham visited her Uncle, J. B. Cave, last Friday.

Miss Judelle Robertson spent last week with her brother near Cane Valley.

Mr. W. H. Cave made a business trip to Campbellsville last Friday.

Miss Fannie Cave visited her cousins at this place from Friday until Sunday.

Messrs. Robt. Earles and Ed Wethington were at Mr. W. P. Dillingham's last week.

Mr. Winfrey Beard, of the L. W. T. S., visited his parents from Friday until Sunday.

Misses Bertha and Audra Dillingham were the pleasant guests of Miss Annie Sharp last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Knifley and children are visiting relatives here. They will leave in a short time for Illinois.

Mr. R. B. White visited relatives here last Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Garlin Weatherford spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Abner Brockman.

Mr. Coy Brockman and sister, Miss Becca, were at Mr. W. P. Dillingham's, Saturday.

Mr. Joe H. Morris and family have moved to their farm near Cane Valley.

Mr. E. S. Rice, of near Cane Valley, visited at Mr. G. C. Russell's last Saturday night and Sunday.

Misses Eula and Bertha Martin entertained a number of their friends last Saturday night. All report a nice time.

Messrs. R. I. Humphress and J. C. Bryant were visitors at Mr. Wm. A. Humphress a few nights ago.

Mt. Pleasant.

Editor News:

On the 19th day of Dec., their closed one of the most successful schools ever taught in the "Mt. Pleasant District," in the knowledge of the writer. It was taught by a young lady of lovable disposition and talent—one dearly loved not only by all her pupils, but by the parentage as well. I have reference to Miss Mattie Garnett, and want to say through your columns to the trustee, Mr. S. C. Hood, that he made a wise and efficient selection, and I would be glad to see him give her an "unqualified endorsement" by securing her services for the ensuing year.

Ozark.

We are having the coldest weather of the season.

A light resembling a blaze of fire was seen by several persons in this neighborhood last Monday evening about sundown. Your correspondent first saw it. It was not higher than the tree tops, and appeared to fall to the ground near me, while others who were a mile from where I was, said it appeared to fall near them.

Mr. Sid Bailey and daughter, Miss Nannie, of Craycraft, spent last Monday very pleasantly with Mrs. T. J. Bryant and daughters.

Virgil Conover and brother, sons of Mr. Talbott Conover, came in from Indiana, last week, and conveyed their father home with them. They live at Terre Haute, Ind.

Mrs. R. B. Reeves is suffering with rheumatism this week.

Mr. Fred Troutman is quite sick with mumps and fever.

Mr. Nathan Murrell, of Craycraft, is quite sick.

Mrs. Callie Bryant and Miss Etta Bryant visited at Mr. David Bryant's last Friday.

Mr. June Montgomery, who has been sick is better.

The mumps scare has crippled our schools, but there has only been one case. We hope they will not get scattered.

Dirigo.

Mrs. Manda J. McClister, widow of the late John W. McClister, and Mr. I. G. Williams, of this place, were married last Thursday. They will reside on Mr. William's farm near here.

Rev. James Campbell is very sick at this writing. He is at the home of his sister, Mrs. Melvin Petty, and it is feared that he is taking pneumonia.

Mr. Selby Royse, of this place, and Miss Anna Shively, of Rugby, were married last Tuesday. They will reside on Mr. Royse's farm near here.

Mr. J. B. Willcut was in Columbia last Monday prospecting. Mr. Willcut has made his home in Missouri for a number of years, but has sold his property there and so if he can find a desirable place in Columbia he may locate there.

The pump at the singletree factory here gave way last week and so the machinery had to shut down until a new pump can be ordered and installed.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Garmon, who for the past two or three years, have been making their home at Highland Park, and claimed for his trophy their little son, Sammie H. Garmon. He was born January 9, 1913, and died December 14, 1913, at the early age of eleven months and five days. He was a bright and lovable little child and was the idol of the Garmon home. The remains were brought back here for burial in the Antioch cemetery near Sparkesville. I would say to the bereaved ones weep not, for Jesus said: Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Obituary.

On Thursday, January, the 8th, 1914, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Cheatham and claimed for its victim their sweet little baby aged one month. It was oh so hard to give the precious little darling up. It was the idol of the home and father and mother's joy. It was sick only a short time, its death being caused by its parents giving it a different medicine from what they intended to. This made it so much harder for them to bear to think they made the mistake, when if they had only had known it they would not have given it to it for the world, but weep not father and mother, for its little form is resting in Heaven, a bright and shining star, there to shine forevermore, and his sweet little baby hands are beckoning to father and mother to come and join him around God's eternal throne where there is no sickness and dying nor sad good-byes.

God needed one more star to shine in heaven and thus the tiny flower was plucked from this dark and sinful world, and placed a shining cherub in heaven. Remember Jesus has said suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of heaven, and there is one sweet consolation you can have that you can meet your precious darling in Heaven. He can not come back to you, but he is watching and waiting for you to enter the pearly gates and join him, an unbroken band forevermore. Oh it is so hard to see his little form laid to rest in cold earth and see his little baby hands in death's cold embrace but just look to Jesus he can heal your broken hearts put your trust in Him, and he will comfort you in your deep sorrow. He is one that is with you, your comforter and guide in this the darkest hour of your lives. There is a reaper whose name is Death, and he gathers the golden sheaves from this dark world and transplants them in that brighter world there to live forevermore. It is so hard to see the precious little ones taken away so young, but it is God's will not ours and let us say God's will be done not ours.

He will be missed oh so much not only by father and mother but by many relatives and friends who regretted so much to give him up. The home is made lonely by his departure, a gloom being cast around the place, it being the only child it will be missed Oh! so much. But dear father and mother live to meet little James Wickley, where death never enters for we know he is at rest in Jesus. The sunshine, life and joy of the home is gone, but sooner or later you can join him. I know your sorrow seems almost impossible to bear, but cast your cares on loving Jesus until life's hard toils are done sweetly then go home to Glory home sweet home, where your darling has gone. All was done that loving hands and physicians could do to relieve his suffering but to no avail. Dear father and mother and many other other relatives and friends mourn his loss.

The little form was laid to rest in the family burying ground amid the tears and sobs of many who had gathered to bid farewell to the precious darling. The funeral services were conducted by

All Three of these for $5.50

Rev. G. R. Abrell. The prayers of the readers of this paper are requested by the broken hearted father and mother in this one trying hour of their lives. Then sadly we say:

A precious one from us is gone:
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in the home:
Which never can be filled.

But why do we mourn for departed ones?

Or quake at death's alarm
'Tis but the voice that Jesus sends:
To call them to his arms

Oh! we pray to meet our darling
For a long sad sweet embrace,
Where the little feet are waiting
And we see his loving face

We miss thee, yes we miss thee
At morning, noon and night,
We miss thee here and every where,
Thy sunny face so bright.

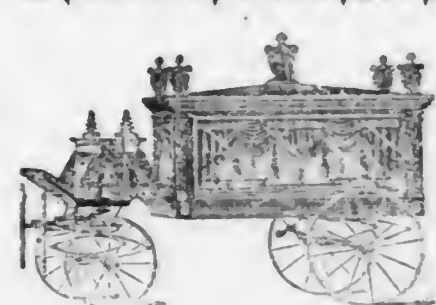

We miss thy silvery prattle
When evening hours have come,
And long for thy dear presence
To cheer our lonely home.
